

Double Billing

If you normally bill for your travel time, it is unethical to bill another client for work you did for the second client during the travel.