Kashrut: Dairy/Meat: Cutting Boards

You cut a spicy/charif item of one gender on a cutting board (whether wood or plastic), and then cut the opposite-gender spicy/charif food on that same cutting board.

STATUS Generally, the board and the knife and whichever food was cut second becomes nonkosher. Consult a rabbi for exceptions.

WHAT TO DO If you can sand off the surface to below the level of any knife cuts, the board might be kosher. Consult a rabbi.

© Copyright 2025 Richard B. Aiken | www.practicalhalacha.com